Accidents injure seven

By DENA BISNETTE

Two Long Beach residents were injured at about 2 p.m. Wednesday in a car-truck accident at BaySide Park.

According to Hancock County Sheriff's Department investigators at the scene, a Ford pick-up being driven by Milton J. Favre of Long Beach and headed east on DeSoto Street ran into a ditch after colliding at the Jasper Street intersection with a southbound Pontiac Trans-Am being driven by Tim Finch of Route Seven, Bay St. Louis.

Both drivers were uninjured. However, two passengers in the Favre vehicle, Virgie Favre, 41, and Billy Favre, 12, were injured and were taken by ambulance to Hancock General Hospital.

Hospital spokesman Mary Perkins reported that Billy Favre was treated and released. Mrs. Favre was in good condition with broken ribs and lacerations.

The fact that the Jasper-Desoto intersection is not marked with a stop sign may have contributed to the cause of the accident, officers at the scene said. However, both drivers were cited for failure to yield.

Five other people were also injured in accidents this week.

Ms. Perkins also reported Wednesday that Phillip S. Burdette of Bay St. Louis, injured in a Tuesday auto accident, was in good condition at the hospital.

Burdette, 30, of 207 Main Street, was preparing for transfer to the Veteran's Administration Hospital in New Orleans, La., Ms. Perkins said.

According to a report from the sheriff's department, Burdette suffered a broken arm and other injuries when his 1956 Chevrolet ran off a curve while traveling south on Lower Bay Road at about 5:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Burdette was apparently driving too fast for road conditions, authorities said. He was alone in the car at the time of the accident and no other vehicles were involved.

Injured in a separate accident Tuesday were Regina Moran, 21, of Route 2, Bay St. Louis, and Eric Moran, 2, of the same address.

Both were treated at Hancock General Hospital and released after Mrs. Moran's car and another vehicle collided at about 2:30 p.m. on Old Nicholson Road north of Waveland.

According to a sheriff's department report, Mrs. Moran's vehicle skidded on wet pavement and hit the left side of an oncoming vehicle driven by Ernalene McKee, 37, of Route 6, Bay St. Louis.

Mrs. McKee and her passengers, Robert McKee, 39; Troy McKee, 16; and Robyne McKee, 8, were not injured.

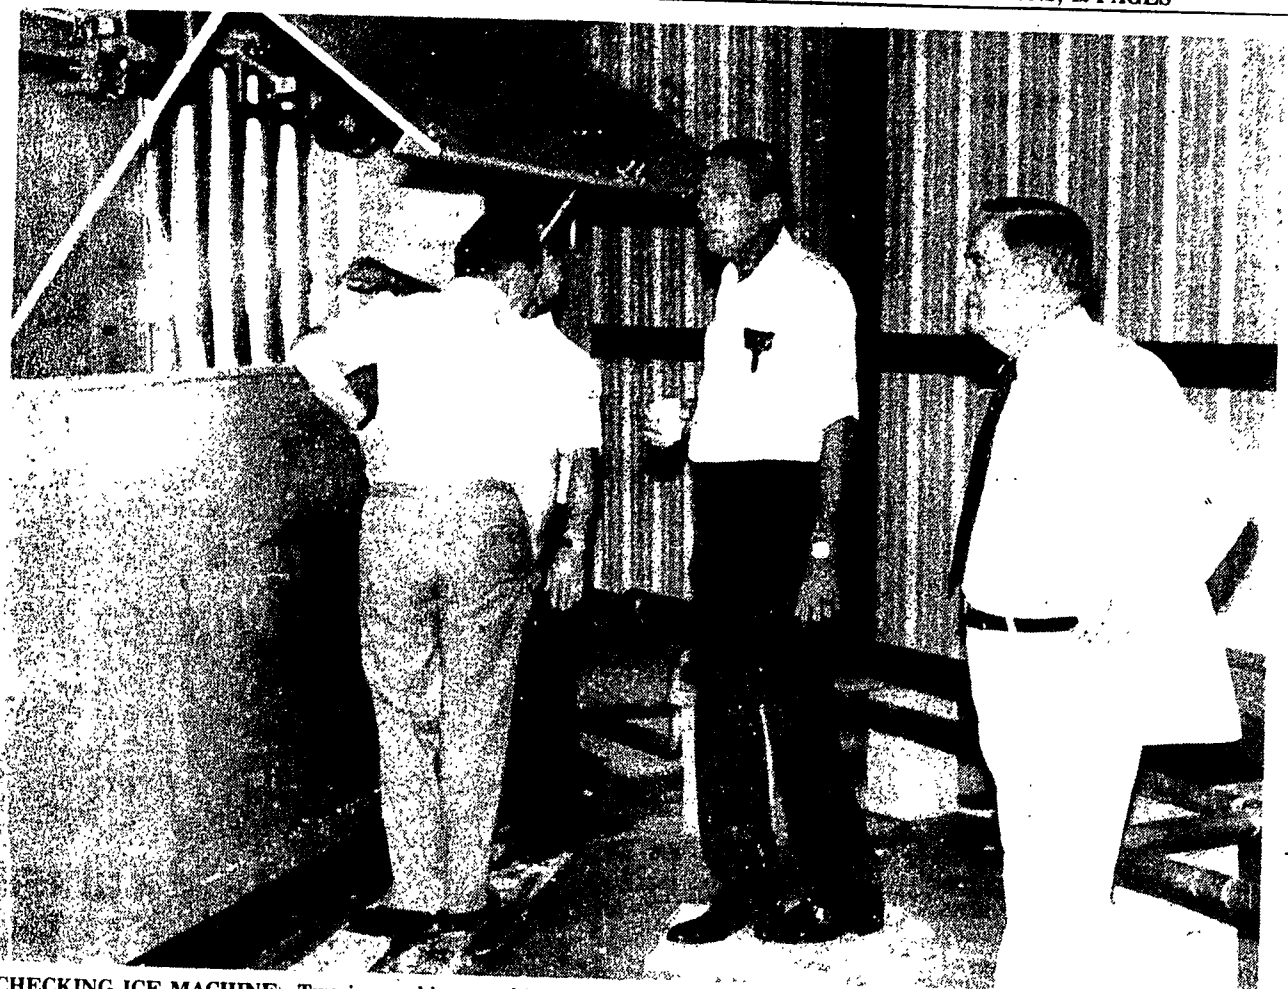

Also reported in good condition at Hancock General Hospital Wednesday was Phyllis Strong, 18, of 205 St. George Street, Bay St. Louis. She was a passenger in a vehicle driven by Kirt Strong, 20, of the same address, that was involved Sunday in an accident in BaySide Park.

A second passenger, two-year-old Anthony Strong, was treated and released, Ms. Perkins reported.

The accident occurred when the Strong vehicle and a vehicle driven by Michael Swartz, 20, of 537 St. John St., Bay St. Louis, collided at the intersection of Sunflower and West Greene Street, the sheriff's office reported.

Officers investigating the incident reported that there was no stop sign at the intersection.

Swartz was not reported injured in the collision.

Ice comes to Bayou Cadet

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Hancock County officials were on hand Tuesday for ribbon cutting ceremonies marking the official opening of an ice plant at Bayou Cadet.

Terry's Seaford, owned by Terry Ladner, has facilities capable of producing some 15 tons of ice in a 24-hour period.

During opening ceremonies J. Ruble Griffin, Circuit Court judge, read aloud a resolution of commendation and congratulations to Ladner from the Hancock County Board of Supervisors for the opening of the industry.

The resolution in part said, "Whereas, there has been a need for a means of providing ice at Bayou Cadet (sic) Marina for use of commercial and sport fishermen; and

Whereas, Mr. Terry Ladner has now constructed and put into operation an ice house at Bayou Caddy (sic) Marina capable of meeting current and anticipated needs for ice by local commercial and sport fishermen; and Now, therefore, be it resolved, this board offer to said Terry Ladner its commendation and congratulations for providing this long-needed service.

Be it further resolved, that to publicly commend Mr. Ladner...

Ice is loaded in the 'holes' of shrimp-vessels at the plant's dock through a blower after being automatically weighed, and only takes a few minutes Ladner said.

"We are now operating two ice making machines, and the plant is so designed that two more can be added in order to double production if needed," Ladner stated.

Ladner is also involved in the seafood wholesale as well as ice business.

Ladner's current price is $7 for 300 pounds and is now selling to several county fishermen as well as others from the state of Alabama.

The plant construction began in February with ice making equipment arriving in May. The first ice production was on June 29.

PROBLEM CORNER—A Trans-Am sits in the middle of the Jasper Street waiting for a tow truck while the pick-up it collided with rests with one wheel in a ditch at the corner of DeSoto and Jasper. Both drivers, Milford J. Favre of Long Beach in the truck and Tim Finch of Bay St. Louis in the Trans-Am, escaped injury in the wreck, but Favre's two passengers were injured and were taken to Hancock General Hospital. The BaySide Park intersection where the wreck occurred has been a source of complaints from nearby residents, who say it is frequently the site of accidents and should be marked with stop signs. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

Harrison supervisor eyes bridge funding approval

By DENA BISNETTE

Final approval of funding for a new bridge over the Wolf River at Pass Christian is expected within the next four months, according to Harrison County Beat Three Supervisor Billy McDonald.

McDonald said the proposed bridge will replace a 30-year-old structure known as the Rouse Bridge or the Menge Avenue Bridge across the Wolf River at Menge Avenue.

He said the bridge project will also include rerouting part of Menge Avenue to connect with the new bridge, clearing out the river channel and removing the remains of a bridge that preceded the present bridge, placing fill material to repair the channel and removing the present bridge.

If funding is approved, 75 percent of the project cost will come from a Federal Highway Department matching grant financed by a gasoline tax imposed last year. The other 25 percent will come from a $325,000 bond issue recently approved by the Harrison County Board of Supervisors.

"We've been working on the replacement of this bridge for the past six years," McDonald said, "and we see no problems in getting final approval."

Once approval is obtained, the land acquisition involved on the bridge construction will probably take about four to six months, McDonald added. He said construction itself will take about 200 days.

Gulf South Engineers of Biloxi is already working on the engineering for the project, he said.

Louisiana men arrested in I-10 shooting

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Two Louisiana men have been arrested in connection with the death of a man whose body was found Sunday morning in Hancock County.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said Walter S. Bodden, 20, of 1145 Mary Poppins, Apt. B, Harvey, La. is presently being held in Hancock County Jail under $100,000 bond.

Bodden was brought back to Mississippi Tuesday and charged with murder after he appeared before a judge in Louisiana and voluntarily waived extradition, Peterson said.

Gilberto Zamora, 18, of Elysian Fields, New Orleans, La. is presently in central lockup in New Orleans under $500,000 bond. Peterson said, charged as an accessory before the fact to murder.

Peterson said Zamora was arrested Tuesday night by homicide detectives from the New Orleans Police Department.

"He has or will waive extradition and will be brought back to Hancock County Thursday or Friday after going before a judge," Peterson speculated.

The body of Carlos J. Cordoba, 20, of New Orleans was found lying on the shoulder of the eastbound lane of I-10 near Kiln about 8:15 a.m. Sunday by a passing truck driver.

According to Peterson, the victim had been shot on the lower right side of his face, with the projectile lodged in the rear of his skull.

"We definitely feel at this point he was shot where he was found."

"According to our investigation, Cordoba had been there just a short period of time—less than an hour," Peterson said, but added his office received numerous calls about the body.

Peterson said he, Investigator Delbert Seay and four or five deputy sheriffs responded to the calls.

They were joined in their investigation by Mississippi Highway Patrol officials and homicide investigators from the New Orleans Police Department.

Peterson said Bodden was arrested by Jefferson Parish Sheriff's Department officers Monday night around midnight after a warrant was issued from Hancock County. Peterson also said the suspected murder weapon—a .38-caliber revolver—was recovered Tuesday afternoon off I-10 approximately one-fourth mile from where Cordoba's body was found.

"It was recovered after the suspect told investigating officers he had thrown it out of his vehicle on the way back to New Orleans."

Initially officials believed there was a possible connection between the dead

Flood control committee opens Pearl Basin study

At the first hearing of a State Senate Special Study Committee on Flood Control Monday, representatives from the U.S. Corps of Engineers explained their reasons for choosing the Shoccoe Dam as the most feasible flood control project for the Pearl River Basin.

Senator Gene Taylor of Bay St. Louis is secretary of the special committee.

Also, representatives of state and federal Soil and Water Conservation agencies voiced concern about including soil conservation programs in any flood control project.

Colonel Patrick Kelly of the U.S. Corps of Engineers, Mobile District, compared the Shoccoe Dam cost efficiency with that of three alternatives. He said that Shoccoe would protect twice the area at one-third the cost of the three-dam plan considered.

He noted that converting the Ross Barnett Reservoir, another alternative, to meet Corps standards for flood control would cost about $450 million as opposed to Shoccoe's $100 million. A third alternative, channelization of the Pearl River from the Reservoir to Byrum would mean moving three times the amount of material moved for the Panama Canal.

Kelly noted that if Shoccoe had been in place during the 1979 flood the damage would have been reduced from $473 million to $35 million.

He explained that the project is now in the public hearing stage and the Corps final report will be made this fall. "Let me emphasize that the final determination on the construction of Shoccoe will be made by the U.S. Congress, not the Corps of Engineers," he said.

Horace Lester of Lester Engineering

Co. of Jackson told the committee that he "is convinced that a plan a lot less expensive than Shoccoe can be found to protect all those from Leake County to the Mississippi line."

"I think there is a better way. We need to take a long, hard look at the alternatives before we get Shoccoe underway. Why put a huge financial burden on the taxpayers when it is not absolutely necessary?" he asked, noting that as much as 35 to 40 percent local support could be required for the dam.

He said that the Reservoir should not be left out of flood control just because it is not a federal project and he advocated improving the downriver transport capability of the river.

Gale Martin of the Mississippi Soil and Water Conservation Commission said, "We feel that one of the major contributors to the flooding problem in Mississippi is the erosion that is taking place on the lands of the state. The State Soil and Water Conservation Commission realizes and is working toward the goal of the best flood protection may be accomplished through the proper treatment of the watershed areas or the protection of the land in the watershed areas. Conservation practices that keep the soil on the land will greatly benefit these acres plus it will keep the sediment from clogging the channels as it is now doing."

Gene Sullivan of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service said that the accelerated land treatment plan for the Upper Pearl River Basin should be a part of the overall project plan. He noted that land treatment such as terracing, conservation tillage and contour farming reduce erosion.

Hancock jobless rate rises to 10.5

Hancock County's unemployment rate rose more than one percentage point last month but still remains below the state's average jobless rate.

According to statistics supplied by the state office of the Mississippi Employment Security Commission, Hancock County's MESC office in Bay St. Louis reported 9.2 percent unemployment in June, a 1.2 percent increase from the 8 percent jobless rate reported in May.

The 9.2 percent figure means that 890 people were unemployed out of the county's total civilian labor force of 9,630 people. However, it also means that 8,740 people had jobs.

The June unemployment rate was lower than the state average, which was 10.5 percent and represented an increase of one percentage point over the state average for May.

Both Hancock County and the state were above the national unemployment rate in June. The national rate was 7.4 percent last month.

According to Ann Ladner of the MESC Bay St. Louis office, the local increase is considered seasonal and occurred because a large number of young people entered the job market last month.

"We have a lot of young people who are added to the civilian labor force when school is out. However, we did have a great many summer youth jobs for the disadvantaged and were able to place about 102 of them through those programs," Mrs. Ladner said.

"Our total placements for June, including the ones for the summer youth jobs, included 183 people," she added.

In addition to the seasonal increase in the jobless rate, Mrs. Ladner said the June unemployment rate in Hancock County may also have been affected by a general increase in claims for unemployment insurance.

Hancock County was one of 71 Mississippi counties reporting increases in unemployment last month and one of fifty counties with unemployment rates of more than 10 percent.

Police given runaround by tipsy tourists

By NAN PATTON EHRLBRIGHT

An altercation Sunday among members of a boating party resulted in a busy evening for law enforcement officials in Pass Christian.

Pass Christian Police Department Investigator Tom Ruspoli said the incident involved about five people from the New Orleans area on a sailboat near the Pass Christian Yacht Club.

"Apparently they were drinking," Ruspoli said, "and one person was causing quite a few problems."

Ruspoli said when the boat ran aground about 100 yards offshore, that person left the boat and flagged down a passing patrolman, claiming someone on the boat had pulled a gun and fired it at him.

"He also told a deputy sheriff there were 'oodles and oodles' of narcotics on the boat."

Then, Ruspoli reported, he asked to be taken to the hospital because he said he was having trouble breathing.

Ruspoli said he believed the man was taken to the hospital by Mobile Medic Ambulance Service.

"I'm not sure," he said. "I got involved in the incident in the middle."

Later, Ruspoli said, the man was released from the hospital, made his way to the bus station and took a bus out of town.

In the meantime, a patrolman went to the shore line and motioned the rest of the group to come onshore.

"They ignored him, got their boat off the sand and took off."

Ruspoli said the Harrison County Sheriff's Department and law enforcement officers from the Bureau of Marine Resources were called for assistance.

BMR officials, he said, did bring the boat back to Pass Harbor.

"They found one male subject unconscious who was taken to the hospital and held for observation."

"But he was coherent later that night."

Ruspoli said no contraband was found on the boat.

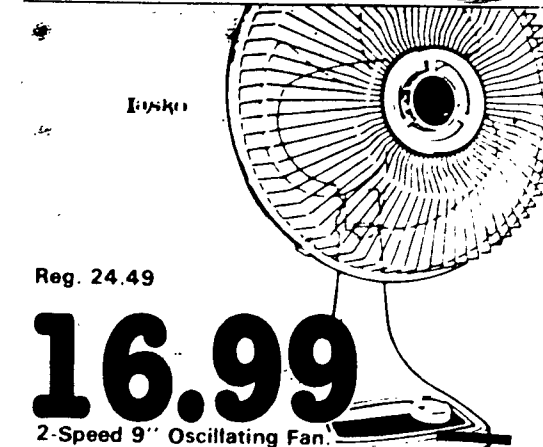

"The only result was that one man—Brian Haverlock—who we feel sure saw the patrolman motioning and didn't cooperate, was arrested for failure to obey a police officer."

That charge, Ruspoli said, is a misdemeanor.

EGGS... Cool and Light

DIETER'S DELIGHT SALAD

2 servings/360 calories per serving
Main dish salads and summer are natural go-togethers. This one uses hard-cooked eggs to supply necessary protein. It's colorful, crunchy and cool.

1/4 cup diet mayonnaise
1/3 cup dill pickle relish
4 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
1 package (10 oz.) frozen peas, thawed and drained
1/2 cup sliced celery
1/2 cup sliced water chestnuts
Romaine leaves

In medium bowl, blend together mayonnaise and relish. Reserve 4 center egg slices for garnish. Chop remaining eggs. Stir chopped eggs and remaining ingredients except romaine leaves into mayonnaise mixture. Chill to blend flavors. For each serving, spoon about 1 1/4 cups salad onto romaine leaves. A needed industry in Hancock County

Over the years there has been a lot of talk about the need for an ice house at Bayou Cadet designed to serve local commercial and sport fishermen.

Several attempts have been made at times to build such a complex, but no one has ever been successful in completing the construction.

Since the closure of the large Bay St. Louis ice plant many years ago, commercial fishermen have had to depend on ice being trucked in from Gulfport and other areas or going to other ports to secure ice.

On Tuesday of this week, Terry Ladner, who is no stranger to the fishing industry since he was raised in a family involved in the fishing business, opened an ice plant at Bayou Cadet.

His company's name is Terry's Seafood, and appears to be a top flight operation with the capability to produce much of the needed ice for both commercial and sports fishermen.

We feel a resolution by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors commending Mr. Ladner on the completion of the ice plant speaks for the importance of this industry opening in our county.

The First Amendment bars government from "abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press," the meaning of that phrase may seem to be clear on its very surface, but it is not. If it were so clear, we should not have, as we do, an unending series of cases before the U.S. Supreme Court to determine what freedom of speech and press means.

Some questions will illustrate the ambiguity that lies beneath the surface of the words. What is "the" freedom of speech and press? Despite what First Amendment fundamentalists keep telling us, it is not an absolute and unlimited freedom. "That view," as the Supreme Court remarked in 1961, "cannot be reconciled with the law relating to libel, slander, misrepresentation, obscenity, perjury, false advertising, solicitation of crime, complicity by encouragement, conspiracy, and the like."

It may be leaning too hard on a single word, but it seems to this writer that, when the framers of the First Amendment inserted the word "the" before "freedom of speech, or of the press," they indicated a freedom with some determinable limits. Again, what is "speech?" Uttering words by voice, of course. But what of "symbolic speech," that is actions intended to convey a message, such as parades in support of a cause, picketing, burning draft cards, burning the American flag, wearing black armbands to school to protest the Vietnam War? All of these activities, and others besides, have been before the Court, which has laid down a somewhat fluctuating line between symbolic speech enjoying protection, on the one hand, and actions which government may regulate, on the other.

Or, what is "the press?" When the First Amendment was written, a press was a device for printing words on paper. Now it may also be any device that projects sounds or images. If we invent a machine that projects tastes, smells, and tactile sensations as well, it, too, no doubt will come under the constitutional protection of "the press."

In recent decades there has been a marked tendency on the part of the courts to contract "the freedom of speech, or of the press" into "freedom of expression," a phrase which is not found in the Constitution. Freedom of expression covers live entertainment, even if no words are spoken and no thoughts are expressed. So, for instance, the Supreme Court decided in 1981 that a naked girl dancing in a coin-operated peep show was protected by the First Amendment. She was, you see, expressing herself, though the Court did not bother to explain just what she was expressing.

Finally, what governmental actions "abridge" the freedom of speech and press? That, of course, is the question that keeps the courts busy. There is no short and simple answer to it that can be given in this limited space. You would have to take a course in constitutional law to learn the Supreme Court's answer. Even then you might find the answer somewhat less than clear or consistent.

Underlying all these questions there is another question, and it is the basic one: why do we want freedom of speech and press? Note well that the question is not whether we want it but why. That we want freedom of speech and press may be taken as a given in this country, but we must still ask why we want it. What purpose does freedom of speech and press serve that is so important that we, the people, should put it in our fundamental law and keep it there?

It is on the answer to this question that all intelligent discussion of the meaning and limits of this freedom must turn. We cannot know what this, or any other constitutional freedom, means or what its limits are unless we are clear in our own minds on what we, as a people, are trying to achieve by it.

The best way to celebrate the coming bicentennial of our Constitution would be to engage in serious thinking and discussion of its most important clauses, of which the freedom of speech and press clause surely is one. It is not enough to congratulate ourselves on our freedom to speak and publish. We need to ask ourselves what great purposes, both public and private, make this freedom worthy of constitutional protection. Then we may formulate some rational idea of where the boundaries of the freedom are.

Proximity to Bay sewage lagoon blamed by hepatitis sufferer

July 24, 1984
Sea Coast Echo
Dear Editor,

I want to take this privilege through the Sea Coast Echo to warn the people of southern Hancock County and particularly surrounding the Bay St. Louis sewerage cesspool disposal pond and the open fallout drainage over and across the streets of the city of Waveland to the city line, and north across my property and the county roads and streets and other private properties, used by the City of Bay St. Louis as an open sewerage, drainage ditch.

My doctor on July 23 diagnosed my disease as the dreaded hepatitis—since the Bay St. Louis sewerage pond and its fallout, which crosses my property is highly polluted and contaminated with human feces and urine. Therefore, in my opinion, making it a good source of hepatitis and other diseases.

Please take notice and beware. Help prevent a possible epidemic of hepatitis and other highly contagious diseases.

Fulbright Scholarship award prompts plea for de Montluzin Scholarship contributions

Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Dear Sir,

News of Anna Maria di Benedetto's Fulbright award was exciting news indeed!

Not only is Miss di Benedetto blessed with an inheritance of high intelligence, but she was lucky to have had the instruction, scholarly discipline and inspiration of Emily de Montluzin, a superbly gifted teacher of Latin and French.

Civic pride in Miss di Benedetto's scholarship—one of the most coveted in the U.S.A.—should also remind us of the scholarship fund established in Mrs. de Montluzin's name for the study of foreign languages.

Whoever has a memorial to dedicate or a donation to make should consider a contribution to this fund which benefits a gifted Bay St. Louis student.

Sincerely,
Mrs. G. Partridge Stanton

Small-business Angle

by John Sloan

Hardly a month goes by without yet another blue-ribbon panel releasing a report on the state of the American education system. The spate of studies makes it likely that one or more will be lost in the crowd.

It would be a shame if "High Schools and the Changing Working Place: The Employer's View" should suffer such a fate, for this new report deserves close reading—especially by small-business owners.

The report differs from its predecessors on several fronts. For starters, it is well-focused. It concentrates on the educational needs of but one group—high school graduates who do not go on to a four-year college.

Although this student group constitutes the largest single segment of the work force, it has been virtually ignored in most recent education studies. Thus, the report fills a very large void. Also departing from the recent norm, the study assesses students' educational needs from the viewpoint of their prospective employers—private businesses and public institutions. Thus, the report has a single, practical purpose: To identify the basic educational goals that must be met if high school graduates are to launch successful, upwardly mobile careers.

The report urges educators to gear their programs to developing 10 key "competencies" within students.

Basically, these 10 can be boiled down to three abilities: the ability to communicate, the ability to solve problems and the ability to feel comfortable with innovations.

Revolutionary goals they are not. Yet, as earlier reports have documented, they are not now being met.

The report does not try to tell high schools how to turn things around. It refrains from prescribing specific curriculum revisions and teaching methods and philosophies, for example. However, it does suggest generic steps that can and should be taken to upgrade education. Appropriately, it carves out a large role for the business community.

"Large" does not necessarily mean difficulty or expensive. Some of the suggestions for business involvement—such as helping with career guidance programs and advising students on his job opportunities and considerations —center on fundamental employer responsibilities and interests.

Because small business is responsible for the vast majority of first-hires in this country, small-business owners have a big stake in the quality of high school education.

That is why, for their own benefit and the good of future generations of high school students, small-business owners should read this thoughtful report (available for $5.25 from the National Academy Press, 2101 Constitution Ave. NW, Washington, D.C. 20418).

More importantly, they should attempt to help their local schools equip young people with the mental tools they will need to survive and prosper in a rapidly changing world and workplace. (John Sloan is president of the National Federation of Independent Business, representing more than half a million small-business men and women.)

Quotables by CUEVAS

Bay St. Louis poetess Elizabeth Hillery Sullivan has released her third publication this week.

Mrs. Sullivan's latest title is 'The Scholar and the Sage.'

We had a long conversation with Mrs. Sullivan on Monday and she really enjoys her writings. She told us her first publication is about ready for a second printing.

Her latest book is available at several local outlets in Hancock County and along the Coast.

Mrs. Sullivan began her writing only a few years ago, that is in book form, as much of the materials have been gathered over her long life span.

Her third publication appears to be her best and we are sure it will be in second printing very soon.

Her books make very fine gifts for persons who enjoy reading.

The number of talented people we have in our county in so many fields of the arts and crafts always amazes us.

Last weekend we attended a meeting in New Orleans and got to talk with our old friend Jerry Whittle who is the publisher of the McDuffe Progress in Thompson, Ga.

Whittle was managing editor of The Sea Coast Echo seven years ago and we are glad he is still doing a fine job in the newspaper industry.

He dropped 50 pounds of weight and looks real good. So we are not the only ones paying attention to our physical condition.

Jerry said to tell all of his Hancock County friends hello.

Congratulations are in order for the Bay St. Louis 14-15-year-old Babe Ruth baseball players on winning the state championship on Monday night.

The group coached by Ronnie Artigues and Fred Weems went undefeated in tourney play and the majority of the players are from the Bay St. Louis teams who were 12-13-year-old state champs for two years.

We feel one of the most important factors in the success of the team is the devotion of the players and their coaches.

You can probably count on the fingers of one hand the number of persons in our county who puts as much effort in supporting youth sports as Artigues.

We now offer good luck to the Babe Ruth champs in the games to come.

Early risers this morning may want to hear an interesting talk titled, 'How is your Earth Suit', by Barbara Kent.

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Morning Edition will be held at the Wheel-Inn in Bay St. Louis and Kent is this morning's special speaker.

She has a private practice of psychotherapy and is a resident of Diamondhead.

The sponsor for today's Morning Edition is Bay Carpet of MarkeTown Shopping Center.

This is the time of year when many persons use our seawall for fishing.

One of our friends who lives on the beach in Cedar Point tells us this week how many of the fishermen toss discarded cans, paper and all types of debris into the water.

Pollution of our waters is caused by many things, and the tossing of debris is one serious way.

The tides are low in the winter and the debris can be seen, so it is also a serious eyesore.

We wish everyone would enjoy themselves using our beaches and seawall, but also, please take your litter home and properly discard.

Bay woman sentenced to 15 years following drug charge conviction

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

A Bay St. Louis woman was sentenced to 15 years in the state penitentiary Wednesday after a Hancock County jury found her guilty of selling 'T's and blues' to an undercover agent.

"You are eligible for probation," Circuit Judge James Thomas told Doris Ellis, 42, of 1330 Chiniche St. "I don't think you deserve it."

"T's and blues" is the street term for Talwin and Pyribenzamine, which is used in combination as a heroin substitute.

"T's and blues" is one of the more dangerous drugs we have available today," Thomas said.

"I've seen a lot of it in Harrison County and I've seen a lot of it in this county."

"I have seen more than one individual addicted to 'T's and blues.' 'I realize you're a middle-aged woman with five children,' Thomas told Ellis.

"Ordinarily I would be sympathetic. 'But I wonder what could happen to one of those kids of yours if someone sold them 'T's and blues.'"

Ellis said she did not smoke or drink or use drugs.

"I believe you," Thomas told her. "I believe this is strictly an economic situation."

Jackson County Sheriff's Department Deputy Jerome Brown testified that he was working with Bay police officers as an undercover officer on Dec. 15, 1983, when he arrested Ellis at her home for selling 30 sets of 'T's and blues' for $360. Also present at the time was William "Blood" Carter Jr., 28, of 350 Kellar St., Bay St. Louis.

Brown said he first met Carter on Dec. 12 or 13 when he was introduced to him on the beach by Murray Ladner and Joe Pica of the Bay police department.

Carter, testifying later for the prosecution, said he first met Brown on Dec. 15 at the Bay St. Louis police station.

Under cross-examination by Defense Attorney William Frisbie, Brown first said Carter knew on Dec. 12 or 13 that Brown was working as an undercover agent.

Later he told Frisbie Carter was also arrested at Ellis' home.

"Why?" Frisbie asked.

"He was involved, also," Brown said.

"He didn't know I was a police officer."

"When the deal went down I did not go to the Bay St. Louis Police Department," Brown said.

"Pica and Ladner put them both in the vehicle. What happened after that I do not know."

Carter testified that he was dropped off by Bay officers and went home after Ellis was arrested.

"I was not in the same car with Ellis."

Carter said he received a call from Ellis about noon on Dec. 15 saying she had 'some pills I could come and buy.'

He said he went to the police department and told Ladner about the call.

"He talked to the chief and the undercover agent and we got the plan all together."

Carter said he and Brown went to Ellis' house, with Ladner and Pica staying out of sight in a car.

Brown said after he entered the house he and Ellis counted the pills in Ellis' bedroom and agreed on an amount of $360.

"I only had $120—Brown had the remainder."

"So we went into the livingroom and I gave the money I had to Brown."

"He counted it all out and made the buy from Ellis."

Then, Carter said, Brown pulled out his weapon and told Ellis she was under arrest, they went outside and met Ladner and Pica, and Ellis was read her rights.

Under cross-examination Carter stated he is presently residing in Hancock County Jail and that he faces four charges for selling drugs.

Pica testified he brought Brown to Bay St. Louis from Ocean Springs, and corroborated Brown's testimony that he introduced Brown to Carter on Dec. 12 on North Beach Boulevard.

"Did you identify him as an undercover agent?" Frisbie asked during cross-examination.

"I believe I told him he was a deputy sheriff," Pica responded.

"Was Carter cooperating with you—working with you as a confidential informer?"

"Yes, sir."

Also under cross-examination, Pica admitted he had overheard Carter say he was 'working the charges down.'

"But he wasn't serious," Pica said.

"You can't believe half of what Mr. Carter says sometimes."

Ellis testified that the package of pills was brought to her house about 2 or 2:30 p.m. on Dec. 15 by a girl who said someone would pick it up later.

She put the package on her dresser in a back bedroom, she said, and when Carter and Brown arrived Carter followed her to her bedroom.

She did not know the package contained pills, she said, until Carter opened it.

She denied calling Carter and denied helping him count the pills.

"Brown had some money in his hand," Ellis testified, "but he never gave it to me."

Under cross-examination by Asstant District Attorney J.P. Compretta,

Ellis said she has known Carter about a year and that he had gone to her house one time with Ellis' former boyfriend.

"You did not know the woman who delivered the package?" Compretta asked.

"I never saw her before," Ellis responded.

"Some lady who you do not know came to your house and left a package with you to give to someone else you did not know?"

"Do you want to believe a convicted felon trying to get out and an undercover agent trying to make a name for himself?" Frisbie asked in his closing argument to the jury.

Compretta said no promises were made to Carter in return for his testimony.

"When the police want an undercover agent they do not advertise in The Sea Coast Echo," he said.

"And confidential informers are not people who sing in the choir on Sundays."

"You will be sending a message to this community that we will not tolerate dope-dealing here," Compretta said in asking the jury to return a guilty verdict.

After he sentenced Ellis, Thomas told the jury that if the case is appealed—and Frisbie indicated it would be—bond will be set for Ellis while the case is being appealed.

The appeal process, Thomas said, generally takes 12 to 15 months.

Also, Thomas explained, if the verdict is affirmed on appeal and Ellis is sent to Parchman, she would be eligible for parole after serving approximately one-fourth of her sentence.

GCRL official to speak

"Why Islands and Other Deep Ocean Phenomena" is the next topic of the Year of the Ocean seminar series sponsored by the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory of Ocean Springs and Biloxi.

Dr. Ervin G. Otvos, head of the GCRL geology section, will present the one-hour seminar at 11 a.m. on Saturday, July 28.

Seminars are held in the J.L. Scott Marine Education Center at the laboratory's Biloxi campus on East Beach.

The center is now open to the public Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is usually charged, but in celebration of the Year of the Ocean admission is free until 1 p.m. on Saturdays of seminars.

Otvos has been on the faculty of GCRL since 1971. Prior to that, he was assistant professor of geology at Louisiana State University in New Orleans; a research geologist with the British Petroleum Canada Ltd.; and an exploration geologist with Mobil Oil Corporation in New Orleans.

Otvos received a doctoral degree in geology from the University of Massachusetts and a master's degree in geology from Yale University.

Before coming to this county he received a diploma in geology from Eotvos Lorand University in Budapest, Hungary, where he was born. He became a naturalized American citizen in 1966.

The GCRL geologist was a key witness, testifying before a special master appointed by the U.S. Supreme Court to hear claims regarding ownership of Mississippi Sound, in the case of the State of Mississippi versus the United States.

He has published scores of technical papers, contributed to encyclopedias and volumes containing special collections of papers, and has published geological guidebooks on the Gulf Coast.

Otvos has been requested to lead a three-day geological field study on the northeast Gulf coast in conjunction with the 1985 annual meeting of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists in New Orleans.

For the Year of the Ocean seminar Otvos will discuss:

—The 19th century view of the ocean bottom as flat and lifeless;

—How 20th century theories of continental drift and plate tectonics brought about a revolution in understanding of the earth and the oceans;

—Oceans and seas and the history of the earth;

—The role of seashore/sea level movements in coastal areas, and types of shores and near-shore islands;

—Histories of area islands, including Dauphin, Santa Rosa, Petit Bois, Cat, 'Isle of Caprice' (Dog Key), Ship and the Chandeliers, and effects of hurricanes; and —What the future may bring geologically to the coast.

Tender Loving Care For Appliances

The microwave oven does a big job for such a little appliance. It can help you prepare all kinds of foods quickly and easily. And yet, because of its clean cooking ability, it requires very little cleaning attention.

According to home economists from Whirlpool Corporation, a microwave oven can be kept looking "as good as new" by simply wiping out the interior with warm sudsy water and a soft cloth or sponge after using it.

For stubborn soil, they suggest boiling a cup of water in the oven for two or three minutes to let the steam soften the soil—then simply wipe it out. Be sure to clean the areas where the door and oven frame touch when closed, and then rinse well.

The home economists caution against using abrasive cleaners or steel wool pads as they can damage the control panel and electronics. The exterior of your microwave oven may be cleaned with a soft cloth or sponge and mild detergent or spray glass cleaner.

RESOLUTION

By FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH, BAY ST. LOUIS
ADOPTED ON JULY 15, 1984

WHEREAS, Both medical science and biblical references indicate that human life BEGINS at conception, and

WHEREAS, Southern Baptists have traditionally upheld the sanctity and worth of all human life, both born and pre-born, as being created in the image of God, and

WHEREAS, Current judicial opinion gives no guarantee of protection of pre-born persons, thus permitting the widespread practice of abortion on demand which has led to the killing of an estimated four thousand developing human beings daily in the United States, and

WHEREAS, Social acceptance of abortion has begun to dull society's respect for all human life, leading to growing occurrences of infanticide, child abuse, and active euthanasia,

THEREFORE, be it RESOLVED, that the members of First Baptist Church affirm that all human life, both born and pre-born, is sacred, bearing the image of God, and is not subject to personal judgements as to "quality of life" based on such subjective criteria as stage of development, abnormality, intelligence level, degree of dependency, cost of medical treatment, or inconvenience of parents.

Be it further RESOLVED, that we abhor the use of federal, state or local tax money; public, tax-supported medical facilities; or Southern Baptist medical facilities for the practice of selfish, medically unnecessary abortions and/or the practice of withholding treatment from unwanted or defective newly born infants.

Be it finally RESOLVED, that we support and will work for appropriate legislation and/or constitutional amendment which will prohibit abortions except to save the physical life of the mother, and that we also support and will work for legislation which will prohibit the practice of infanticide.

ALLIGATOR HIDE SEIZED—The hide of an alligator approximately eight feet long was confiscated from a Pearlinton residence along with a sawed-off shotgun and some 17 marijuana plants from a garden plot Monday night, according to Alvin Ladner, Hancock County sheriff's investigator. Hancock County officers showing plants and alligator hide are, from

Ranck discusses taxes with Senate study group

The Senate Study Committee on Taxation was told recently by Dr. Ed Ranck, state economist, that Mississippi has the highest state sales tax but one of the lowest income tax rates among seven southeastern states.

While Mississippi has the highest state sales tax, Ranck said, all of the other states except South Carolina also have city, county or parish sales taxes which must be added to the state sales tax on goods purchased.

Mississippi has no local sales tax; however, some cities and counties levy a special tourism, bond or economic development tax on certain sales and services, he added.

Ranck presented a comparison of sales, individual and corporate income, motor fuel, tobacco, alcoholic beverage and property taxes in Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee and Arkansas.

He cautioned the committee that conclusions should not be drawn by comparing individual types of taxes.

The entire tax structure should be looked at as a whole to make valid comparisons, he suggested.

Ranck noted that Mississippi has the lowest per capita income and, thus, the lowest base from which to tax.

As for income taxes, Mississippi's top bracket of 5 percent rate for taxable income over $10,000 is among the lower of the seven states with some taxing at 5 percent for income of $3,000 and over and some taxing at 7 percent for income of $10,000 and over, he said.

Mississippi's exemptions such as $9,500 for married persons filing jointly are among the highest, which helps make Mississippians' income tax among the lowest.

Also at the meeting, Lester Herrington of the State Tax Commission presented a comparison of six Mississippi taxes for the years 1973 through 1983.

Herrington noted the sale tax is the biggest revenue producer, bringing in 43 percent of the general fund revenue in 1983. He explained that 20.5 percent of sales tax collected within a municipality is returned to the municipality. Use tax accounts for 7 percent of the general fund revenue, income tax for 17 percent and oil and gas severance tax for 8 percent, he said.

The tax whose revenue has increased the most over the last 10 years is oil and gas severance tax which brought in only 3 percent of the general fund revenue fund in 1973. This tax is based on production and price of the oil and gas, Herrington explained.

The committee also plans to study the effect of eliminating exemptions from sales tax to see what revenue would be generated; the highway program; certificates of indebtedness; privilege taxes; and how taxes are distributed to counties, cities and school districts.

MOVE OVER

Although an African hippopotamus is attractive to poachers for its ton of meat, and the ivory in its teeth, the ultimate threat facing hippos is the competition for living space with people. Africa's present human population of 460 million people is projected to reach 2.2 billion before it stops growing.

Shooting

man and an armed robbery that occurred about 2 a.m. at the Hospitality Center on I-10 less than six miles away.

An Alabama man, Peterson said, reported being robbed of about $150 in cash by a young Hispanic man whose clothing and description matched that of the deceased and who had with him a small-caliber weapon.

That man was allegedly picked up by another man in a Mercury automobile, and law enforcement officials believed Cordoba owned such a vehicle.

"We had suspected this incident could have been tied in to the armed robbery three to four hours earlier," Peterson said.

"But we determined after our investigation that it did not have any bearing."

At this point, Peterson said, they have no leads on the armed robbery.

"We feel the motive for the shooting was an argument that developed between the victim and Boddien."

Zamora was allegedly lying in the rear of the vehicle at the time of the shooting.

Peterson said officials believe all three persons involved have known each other for several years.

Peterson said Coroner Harold Stiglet pronounced Cordoba dead at the scene Sunday morning, and that J.D. Rutherford, M.D., performed an autopsy on Cordoba Tuesday.

Pearlington duo charged with growing marijuana

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Two Pearlington residents were arrested Monday night in connection with growing and cultivating marijuana, according to Alvin Ladner, Hancock County sheriff's investigator.

A tip was received last week reporting marijuana growing near a residence and a surveillance was set up by Gary Bennett, District Two constable, and Glenn Strong, Hancock County deputy sheriff, on Monday afternoon.

Ladner said, "Kenneth E. Kararick, 38, and Carolyn Ann Kararick, 29, both of Pearlington, were arrested and charged for allegedly cultivating and possessing marijuana."

Strong and Bennett stated, "We staked the plot which was near a thicket for about two hours when the subjects appeared and harvested portions of the 17 plants, some being six feet tall. Then a search warrant was secured from Horatio Frierson, Justice Court judge."

The hide of an alligator in addition to a sawed-off shotgun were also confiscated, both of which are illegal possessions, Ladner added.

Among those participating in the arrests were Strong, Bennett, Alton Sick, District Five constable; State Troopers David Kenny and Fred Keel; Al Arnold and George Burleson, Hancock auxiliary deputies.

Both suspects were released on property bonds.

CIVILIZED ROBIN

Other songbirds may flee when people move in, but the American robin seems to thrive amid civilization, says 'National Wildlife' magazine. It has adapted so well to humanity's imposition on the land that there are more robins in North America today than during colonial times.

HORSESHOE CRAB

The horseshoe crab, named for its hoof shape by early English settlers to North Carolina, is not a crab at all. Its nearest relatives are spiders and scorpions, says National Wildlife's 'Ranger Rick' magazine.

MOSQUITO HAWKS

Dragonflies are the speediest insects, reports National Wildlife 'Ranger Rick' magazine. Some dart by at over 50 miles per hour.

WILLIE AS HOST—Willie Nelson is host of a special program of highlights from "Austin City Limits" at 9 p.m. Saturday, July 28, on Mississippi ETV. "Country Memories with Willie Nelson" includes performances by Loretta Lynn, Merle Haggard and other popular headliners from "Austin City Limits."

Keesler spot bid sales canceled

A Defense Property Disposal Office spot bid sale, scheduled for July 24 at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi was canceled following receipt of directions from the Department of Defense that all such sales at all property disposal offices be stopped until further notice.

The sales are being stopped under a moratorium on sales directed by assistant secretary of defense Lawrence J. Korb which was announced in the Pentagon July 9.

Future sales will be announced when scheduled.

STAR GAZERS

New research indicates that even though some migratory birds are born with a magnetic compass sense, they learn to navigate from the stars after being hatched, reports 'International Wildlife' magazine.

NATIVE REMEDIES

Most of the so-called "wonder drugs" of the 1930s to 1960s, such as digitalis for heart failure, reserpine for tranquilizers and vincristine for treating leukemia, were derived from plants that had been used for centuries by native peoples, reports 'International Wildlife' magazine.

SBA to conduct vets new business seminar

The U.S. Small Business Administration in co-sponsorship with Hinds Junior College will conduct a business training conference for Veterans in Jackson on Aug. 4.

The conference will be held at the Coliseum Ramada Inn. Registration will begin at 8 a.m. and the conference will conclude at 6 p.m.

Congressman J.V. "Sonny" Montgomery, chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, will be keynote speaker. James Sanders, administrator of SBA, will also address the conference.

The conference will offer business counseling, management training, and will be of special benefit to Vietnam-era and disabled veterans, many of whom are interested in going into business for themselves or are already in business. All veterans are invited to attend however.

A conference fee of $10 includes luncheon and reception.

The following subjects will be offered:

- (1) Starting and Managing a Small Business,
- (2) Sources of Capital,
- (3) Business Planning,
- (4) Legal Structure and Taxes
- (5) Recordkeeping
- (6) Home-Base Businesses and Franchising,
- (7) Sales Promotion and Advertising and (8) SBA Programs. Each session, with one exception, will be conducted by a Vietnam veteran with expertise in the subject. Representatives from approximately 20 agencies and organizations will be present to provide information and answer questions.

Many other agencies and organizations have assisted in the planning of this conference. For further information contact the SBA at (601) 960-4378 or Hinds Junior College at (601) 867-3352.

TOUGH TINA

Tina Turner electrifies her "Soundstage" audience on Mississippi Educational Television at 9:30 p.m., Friday, July 27 with hits ranging from "Cat People" to "Proud Mary."

Turner has taken a brief break from performing the nightclub circuit, but she makes a powerful comeback from the days of performing as a team with her husband Ike. Her unique style of "nice and rough" remains.

America's Favorite Foods

In one out of every three American homes, three foods are served at least once a day: bread, fruit juice and milk. Some food experts say Americans want to eat foods that are healthy and nutritious but, they add, many of us need to be educated about the importance of wheat-based foods in a balanced diet.

A new survey reports that many Americans don't know all the facts about enriched white bread. Many think white bread is higher in calories and is less filling than whole wheat bread. The fact is that the nutritional contents are very similar. Whole wheat does contain more nutrients and fiber. Wonder® enriched white bread has as much iron, niacin and potassium as the label on a loaf of Wonder enriched white bread. The next time you're looking for the nutrition facts are there.

VEGETABLE FARMS

More Mississippi farmers have begun to consider raising vegetables as a viable farm enterprise in recent years.

In examining this trend, "Farmweek" reporters will travel to south Mississippi for a visit with James Ford, owner of a Taylorsville vegetable farm, at 7:30 p.m., Monday, July 30 on Mississippi Educational Television. Reporters will interview Ford about his methods for competing successfully in the vegetable market.

Weather forecasts, farm news, market analyses, advice for farmers and a calendar of upcoming agricultural events are included in each edition of "Farmweek," which is co-produced by Mississippi ETV and the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Babe Ruth nine takes state championship, SE regional playoffs in Virginia next target

The Bay St. Louis Babe Ruth Team this week brought home the city's first 14- and 15-year-old state championship after defeating Natchez 9-4 in D'Iberville Tuesday.

The team is slated to compete against 11 other state champion teams for a Southeast Regional title in Stanton, Va., opening against Alabama Aug. 3.

Rod Jenkins, who went three for four at the plate in the finals action against Natchez, earned the state tournament batting title with a .600 average.

BSL pitcher Brian Laneaux won the tourney's Most Valuable Player Award after being credited with two wins, blasting two home runs, and posting a .500 batting average.

Laneaux, along with Joey Rogers and Mark Logan, connected for two hits each in four times at bat to complete the Bay squad's contingent of top hitters in the finals victory.

Laneaux was also winning pitcher in that game.

Several players on this year's state champ 14- and 15-year-old Bay St. Louis team competed on the Bay St. Louis 13-year-old teams which captured state championships in that age bracket in 1982 and 1983.

The 14-15 aggregation began its march to the state title in a district tournament July 13-15 at Bayou View Park in Gulfport.

BSL took that district title with an 8-1 victory over Bayou View, and 12-2 and 21-5 wins over Orange Grove in the double elimination contest.

Jenkins, Laneaux and Rogers blasted homers in the opening game of the state tourney in D'Iberville Friday.

Laneaux was winning pitcher in the 12-2 victory over District 4 Central.

Jay Artigues with 3 for 3 and Laneaux with 3 for 4 were top hitters.

In the second game of the state tourney, Laneaux and Rogers again belted four-baggers.

Top hitters included Jessie Logan, 3 for 3; Jenkins, 2 for 4; Rogers, 2 for 5; and Laneaux, 2 for 5.

Winning pitcher was Glen Rose.

Bay whitewashed Yazoo City in the third game Sunday, 14-0, with winning pitcher David Pitolo also blasting the victors' lone home run.

Top hitters in that contest were Jenkins, 3 for 4; Jessie Logan, 3 for 4; and Pitolo and Mark Logan, both 2 for 4.

Seven teams competed in the state event, and five in the district competition, according to BSL manager Ronnie Artigues.

Bay coach is Fred Weems.

Cancerous fish warn of environmental hazards

In the early 1970s Ron Sonstegard, a biologist at Canada's McMaster University, made some fishing trips across the Great Lakes Basin. But Sonstegard wasn't looking for dinner, he was studying cancer in fish.

Throughout the United States and Canada biologists are discovering alarming rates of cancer in fish, according to the latest issue of 'International Wildlife' magazine.

And while the implications for humans are being debated, some scientists believe sick fish indicate problems for people.

"They (fish) are like the caged canaries used by early coal miners to warn of the unseen hazards of methane gas," says John Black of the Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, N.Y.

"The fish are warning us about the hazards of their environment."

Biologist Sonstegard examined bottom-dwelling fish in the Great Lakes and tributaries and found tumors—many malignant—in every species, according to 'International Wildlife,' published by the National Wildlife Federation.

In some carp, for example,

Sonstegard said all adult males had gonadal tumors and were sterile.

Other biologists have since made similar findings. Black discovered that bullheads in the Buffalo River, which drains into Lake Erie, suffered from high rates of liver cancer.

On the Black River near Cleveland, Paul Baumann of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service found 30 percent of the brown bullheads had liver tumors.

Donald Malins, working at the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration laboratories in Washington state, says, "Hundreds and possibly thousands of lethal chemicals have been dumped... into Tacoma's Commencement Bay. Wherever we find high rates of these pollutants in the bottom sediments, we also find fish with high rates of tumors. The evidence linking the two is very solid."

As part of his study Sonstegard examined museum and university collections of fish. In specimens collected before 1940 gonadal tumors and cancers were nonexistent. Chemicals such as DDT, PCB and dioxin have been introduced into the environment since the 1940s.

While there is no proof that humans have been harmed by eating contaminated fish from U.S. and Canadian waters, some scientists say there is a definite link.

"They point to cancer maps issued by the National Cancer Institute in 1973. In five counties where the occurrence of fish tumors is exceedingly high, the human mortality rate from all cancers is higher than the U.S. average."

However, Dr. Richard Adamson, director of Cancer Cause and Prevention at the NCI, says it is impossible to draw a direct comparison.

"I do think the fish are useful as early and reliable indicators of carcinogens in the environment, and their high rates of cancer are a cause for concern," he says in 'International Wildlife.'

"But you cannot extrapolate from their incidences of cancer to those in human populations. There are too many variables involved."

Some states issue guidelines for fish that are safe to eat. Michigan Congressman Dennis Hertel is trying to establish a mechanism to alert consumers about contaminated fish.

Until that occurs, 'International Wildlife' offers these suggestions:

—Fish from fast-flowing streams are safer than those from lakes, which are susceptible to contamination because their still waters allow chemicals to settle. Open ocean saltwater fish are the safest.

—Younger fish are safer because they are less likely to have accumulated as many chemicals as older fish. Fish that prey on other fish tend to have higher toxics levels because they retain their prey's contaminants. Bottom feeders tend to have higher toxics levels than top feeders.

—Cancers more often appear in fat and skin, so filleting and grilling are more effective ways of preparing fish than baking or broiling, which allow fat to seak into the meat.

BENEFICIAL BATS

Although bats are among the most relentlessly persecuted animals on Earth, Europeans recognize their beneficial value to man as pollinators of fruit and nut trees, dispersers of seeds and predators of pesky insects, says 'International Wildlife' magazine. Bats are legally protected in all European countries as well as in Russia. In fact, thousands of bat "houses" have been placed in national forests throughout Europe, especially in England.

INFLAMED NERVES

Dr. Wm. L. POWELL

These conditions occur more frequently than previously believed. When nerves in the body become inflamed, they often create conditions of acute pain. Of course, the location of the pain varies with the nerve affected and the course it travels in the body. The majority of these cases are the direct result of NERVE ROOT pressure. Structural problems within the spinal column cause nerve root pressures of the nerve fibers. Acute pains of unknown origin or even conditions such as sciatica, bursitis and muscle spasms are most often directly related to inflamed nerves. Sedatives may deaden the pains but correction will not occur until the impinged nerve fibers and nerve root pressure is removed. A Chiropractic examination will let you know if your condition is caused by nerve root pressure within the spinal column. Good health is your responsibility but we stand ready to serve should the occasion arise.

RAIN FORESTS

National Geographic explores the rain forests of Costa Rica, a "hot-house-like" environment that fosters lush green growth and ultimately its beauty and density. "Rain Forest" was first seen on Mississippi Educational Television last year and will be rebroadcast at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Aug. 1.

In the verdant forests of Costa Rica, producers David and Carol Hughes encountered perhaps their most formidable obstacles yet in all of their experiences: dense forests, minimal national light, heavy loads of gear and rain.

"We didn't think the rain was going to be as bad as it was," said David Hughes. "We spent 17 months in Costa Rica, which was a lot longer than we had planned on. It was the most difficult project we'll ever do. At one point, my camera absorbed so much moisture that it swelled up and jammed. I had to repair it in the tent with parts flown in from the States."

Fungus still got into the viewfinder element, prism and nearly every lens we had. Every day that we were in the rain forest brought something new and exciting," he said. "One day you might see frogs carrying tadpoles, another time, a lizard running on water. Part of the excitement was the abundance of wildlife and knowing that with persistence you could see it and film it, have something to show for what you saw."

The program will be repeated at 1:30 p.m., Thursday, Aug. 2.

NUCLEAR STRATEGY

"Nova" questions how to plan for a nuclear war in terms of strategy and winning on "Nuclear Strategy for Beginners" at 8 p.m., Tuesday, July 31 on Mississippi Educational Television.

Throughout history, war has been fought for the purpose of winning; strategy is the planning that is supposed to make that happen. But how does one plan for nuclear war, especially when there may be no winners?

This documentary suggests that everyone on earth—experts and viewers alike—is a novice when it comes to nuclear strategy: no one has experience.

THREE OSCARS

Pianist/composer/entertainer Marvin Hamlisch is the special guest on "Evening at Pops" at 8 p.m., Monday, July 30 on Mississippi Educational Television.

Winner of three Oscars, four Grammys, a Tony and the Pulitzer Prize for his music, Hamlisch performs his own compositions and involves the Symphony Hall audience in a special participation event he calls "rent-a-composer."

WHERE ARE YOU?—Members of the championship 1963 Valena C. Jones High School Track Team are hoping to stage a reunion if enough members of the team can be located. Anyone knowing the whereabouts of team members pictured is asked to write Preston Ladner at 942 Grape St., Abilene, Tex. or Marie Carr, 651 Keller St., Bay St. Louis.

SPINAL CORD INJURIES

My nephew, a high school athlete, was injured in a diving accident last summer and is permanently paralyzed. Can something be done to alert young people to the risk?

Summer is the season for spinal injuries. Statistics show that during the summer months there is a higher incidence of spinal cord injury.

Many injuries result from diving accidents. Often, accidents occur because the diver has not checked to see how deep the water is or whether rocks or logs may be beneath the surface.

The most dangerous dives are racing dives into shallow water, especially at the ocean, and the head first "sailor" dive with arms straight at the diver's side.

Some teenagers dive into swimming pools as they did when they were children, forgetting they are larger and heavier and more apt to hit bottom.

Neurosurgeons at the University of Mississippi Medical Center see five or six cases each summer of "swimming hole syndrome."

The beds of Mississippi's many rivers and creeks may change from year to year. What was a good diving spot last summer may be dangerously shallow for diving a year later.

Motor vehicle accidents cause the majority of spinal cord injuries. Driving under the influence of liquor or drugs may result in a crippling accident.

Football, falls, surfing, tramping, skateboarding, mountain-climbing, skiing and hang-gliding accounts for a smaller number of spinal cord injuries, when compared to diving.

It is little wonder then, that 62 percent of such injuries affect people in the 16-30 year old age group. They are the most active.

In informed bystander may be critical in preventing spinal cord damage after an accident by first determining whether a spinal injury may have occurred. Indications include neck or back pain. The accident victim also may complain of loss of sensation and/or loss of motor ability.

If possible, do not move the victim. In an accident, it is sometimes necessary to remove the person because the vehicle may explode or be hit again. In such situations, the neck and back should be moved as one unit.

In a water accident, the victim's face should be out of the water and the head and back kept in good alignment. An air mattress, surf board, door or other support can be floated under the victim so that he can be removed from the water with as little movement as possible.

If a neck injury is suspected, a rolled-up towel collar can prevent the head from rolling.

Of course, in any situation in which breathing has stopped, resuscitation takes precedence, even at the risk of extending the injury. When spinal cord injuries are suspected, however, it is best to institute cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) using the jaw-thrust or jaw-chin lift rather than hyper-extending the person's neck, which may cause further injury.

Smithsonian to display Richard Petty's Pontiac

Is Richard Petty's Pontiac good for one more race?

Richard Petty, Buddy Parrott, STP officials and everyone else concerned with the car definitely hope it is.

So do officials at the Smithsonian Institute, because Petty and STP have complied with a request that the race car Petty used for his historic 200th victory at Daytona International Speedway on July 4th be donated to The Smithsonian for display in Washington, D.C.

But there is a small problem. The team needs the car one more super-speedway event, the Talladega 500 at Alabama International Motor Speedway on Sunday, July 29.

"We've got another super-speedway car," said Parrott, Petty's crew chief, "but we want to use this one at Talladega. After then, it will be put in the Smithsonian Institute."

"We're 99 percent sure we are going to use the same car for the Talladega 500," continued Parrott. "It already has two wins—win number 197 in the 1983 Winston 500 and win number 200 at Daytona—and another win at Talladega would make three wins altogether."

"Even if it gets bent up some, we can repair it and it will still be the same car when the Smithsonian gets it," said Parrott.

"It's really a big honor for all of us to have that car in The Smithsonian," said Parrott. A lot of blood, sweat and tears went into those 200 wins and I don't think anyone else will ever accomplish that."

"We set getting number 200 for Richard as our goal this year and we accomplished it."

"Now we hope to go on to better things and help him get number 201 at Talladega, and win one more time before going to The Smithsonian."

Survey indicates growth for catfish industry

Persons participating in a taste survey of fried farm-raised catfish overwhelmingly rated the Mississippi product as excellent.

The survey was conducted among 10,000 visitors to the American Farm Bureau Federation convention in Orlando, Fla.

The catfish filets were fried and served to visitors during the three-day convention. Forty-three states were represented in the survey.

"After having eaten the catfish, individuals were randomly singled out and asked to participate in a consumer awareness survey," said Mark Keenum, a marketing specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"A total of 522 questionnaires were obtained, and survey results revealed a very high level of acceptance for farm-raised catfish."

Keenum said individuals were asked to rate the product on a four-point scale ranging from excellent to poor.

"Of those surveyed, a great majority (82 percent) rated the product excellent," Keenum said.

"More than 40 percent of the respondents said they had not eaten farm-raised catfish before or at least not very often."

"Of those who said they had not eaten catfish before or not often, 94 percent said they would buy the product if it were available in their local area."

Keenum said many of the people who had eaten catfish only once had tried it while travelling through a southern state.

"Of those surveyed, a majority preferred catfish filets as opposed to other forms such as whole fish and steaks," Keenum said.

"Most respondents favored packages of two pounds or less," Keenum said except for awareness, only slight differences were found among responses from people in three major regions of the U.S. (South Central, Northeast and West).

"The South Central and Northeast regions favored fresh catfish over frozen catfish by a very slim margin while the Western region slightly favored frozen catfish over fresh catfish," Keenum said.

He said more people from the South Central region, which is the traditional catfish-consuming area, were aware of the product's availability and had eaten the product before.

MAN-MADE PROBLEMS

To help remedy such man-made problems as erosion and overgrazing, wildlife managers are turning to the continent's largest rodent and nature's premiere dam-building — The North American beaver, reports 'National Wildlife' magazine. Some $100,000 erosion repairs by human engineers can be done for less than $5,000 by beavers under the supervision of wildlife managers.

DINNER AT JULIA'S—Louis Evans Jr. of the Pontchartrain Hotel in New Orleans is one of the guest chefs from different parts of the country that are featured on "Dinner at Julia's" with Julia Child. First seen on ETV last fall, "Dinner at Julia's" returns for an encore at 10 p.m. Thursdays, beginning July 26, on Mississippi ETV.

ETV Brief

DOUBLE POLDARK

"Poldark" fans should prepare for a double dose of the adventures of their favorite 18th-century swashbuckling, sterling heart-throb on Sunday, July 29 on Mississippi Educational Television, when the final two episodes of the series will air back-to-back.

Episode 28 can be seen beginning at 7 p.m. and episode 29 at 8 p.m. The doubling-up was necessitated by a preemption of an episode several weeks ago for political programming. Therefore, in his bid for "equal time," the noble Ross Poldark, portrayed by Robin Ellis, is challenged to a duel, and viewers learn his fate once and for all.

WILLIE'S ME—Willie Nels hosts a 90-minute special highlights from "Austin City Limits," called "Country Memories with Willie Nelson," at 9 p.m., Saturday, July 28 on Mississippi Educational Television.

The program includes performances by Loretta Lynn, Merle Haggard, John Anderson, B.B. King, Kris Kristofferson, Lee Greenwood, Ricky Skaggs, Janie Fricke, Roy Orbison, Emmylou Harris and Alabama.

A TODDLERS' DECK featuring slides and tee-pee swings with adjoining horizontal/vertical climbing ladder is part of the new playground equipment recently installed at McLeod Water Park. According to L.J. Breaux, Pearl River Basin Development District director representing Hancock County, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and the Hancock County Park Commission plan to fill in the entire playground area with river sand to make a soft bedding and ensure the safety of the playground.

OLDER CHILDREN VISITING McLEOD WATER PARK can play on this multi-tower deck with swinging bridges, balance rail sections, chute slides, tire swing, tire climber, horizontal ladder and slide pole. The deck is part of the new playground equipment designed by Childscapes, Inc. of Monroe, Ga. and constructed by the Pearl River Basin Development District and funded with a $12,000 special grant from the district.

Miss Hospitality to be crowned Saturday night in Coast Coliseum

Bay St. Louis is represented this year in the 1984 Miss Hospitality Pageant by Miss Karen Ladner. Melanie Bratton of Pass Christian will carry the colors for her hometown in this week's events.

Contestants representing communities and counties from all over Mississippi arrived on the Gulf Coast Tuesday for the pageant.

For the 67 participants in the statewide contest, this year's activities are unique—climaxed the first day at the World's Fair in New Orleans Tuesday evening.

Because of Mississippi's participation in the fair, contestants were the guests of the Louisiana World Exposition. Photo sessions at the Mississippi Pavilion and at other fair sites were interspersed with a tour of the exposition. Work began Wednesday with rehearsals for the pageant's coronation ceremonies, followed by judging sessions and more rehearsals planned Thursday and Friday.

Evening functions at Eight Flags entertainment park in Biloxi and a hayride and barbecue at Gulf Hills Resort in Ocean Springs will provide time for relaxation.

Contestants will also sample Gulf Coast cuisine during luncheons at Biloxi hotels.

This is the 35th year of the Miss Hospitality program, which is sponsored by the Division of Tourism, Mississippi Department of Economic Development.

Contestants were chosen in local pageants and will be judged on intelligence, speaking ability, poise and personality. The young lady selected this week will look forward to a year of travel, a wardrobe and a scholarship from a participating school. She will represent Mississippi at events around the country promoting the state's numerous tourist destinations and business opportunities.

Mississippi Governor Bill Allain and reigning Miss Hospitality Lucy Jenkins of McComb will crown the winner Saturday, July 28, in the Coast Coliseum in Biloxi.

Ceremonies begin at 8 p.m. with an opening production number featuring contestants and guest entertainer Jim Gibson of Chicago, Ill.

The Miss Hospitality coronation ceremony is free to the public. Tickets for a limited number of reserved seats may be obtained from the Coliseum ticket office in Biloxi. Other seats are available on a first-come, first-served basis.

Booklet helps youths fight drunken driving

Drunken driving has a greater impact on young Americans than on any other age group. Now there's a booklet for those who want to combat this killer of 20,000 lives per year.

'Saving Lives,' produced by the Insurance Information Institute and the National Association of Insurance Women, is a booklet designed to help young men and women take a leadership role in fighting drunken driving.

'High school youths aged 16-18 make the licensed drivers in percent of the Jackson Association of Insurance Women.

"Yet they account for 10.9 percent of alcohol-involved traffic fatalities."

"Likewise, college students and young workers aged 19-25 comprise 14.5 percent of the licensed drivers but they account for 33.2 percent of alcohol-related traffic deaths," Nations said.

"We hope that 'Saving Lives' will help young people take effective measures against this problem."

The booklet is divided into five parts: —Part 1 describes the problem of drinking and driving among young persons.

—Part 2 is a mini-manual about organizing and conducting public information campaigns.

—Part 3 provides an analysis of program ideas and specific projects that can be used to fight drunk driving.

—Part 4 gives suggestions for starting a program from scratch.

—Part 5 lists organizations that can be contacted for information and assistance.

Single copies of 'Saving Lives' are available free to young persons interested in combating drunk driving. For a copy write to the Insurance Information Institute, 1500 Main St., #1022, Dallas, Tex. 75201.

"TARTUFFE" IN REHEARSAL—Southeastern Louisiana University students Melanie Parks, left, and Frank Liuzza, center, and Louisiana State University student Andrea Hingle rehearse a scene from the South-eastern Theatre production of "An Evening with Frank and His Friends," which will be staged July 26 and 27 at 7:30 p.m. in the Vonnegut Lecture Theatre in D Vickers Hall (formerly the Humanities Building) in Hammond, La. In addition to "Tartuffe," scenes will be presented from "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" and "Death of a Salesman." Tickets are available at the door for $1 each. (SLU photo)

Wildlife Federation offering classroom posters on acid rain

What is acid rain? Where does it fall? What are its effects—and its solutions?

The answers to these acid rain questions are illustrated on six four-color educational posters, developed as a cooperative project between the National Wildlife Federation and the Canadian Embassy, now available to the public.

Designed for use in classrooms, nature centers and clubs, the posters measure 18" x 24" and are printed on glossy poster stock. Among the facts printed on the posters are:

—The major sources of pollution that cause acid rain are coal-burning power plants in the central and eastern regions of the United States, and non-ferrous smelters in eastern Canada.

—Acid rain has destroyed fish and plant life in hundreds of lakes and streams in the United States and Canada; it can affect human health, releasing lead, copper and cadmium from pipes into drinking water; it is also believed to reduce crop and forest growth.

—The only permanent solution to acid rain is to keep sulfur and nitrogen pollution out of the air; both sulfur dioxide and nitrogen oxide pollution can also be reduced through energy conservation.

A set of six rolled posters, mailed in a protective carton, plus a booklet on Acid Rain—How You Can Help, and an Acid Rain Teacher's Guide are available for $2.95 to help defray shipping costs; a set of just six posters is available for $1.

The offer available while supplies last. Please send check or money order to Acid Rain posters, National Wildlife Federation, 1412 16th Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20036.

If you would like more information on how your organization might obtain a quantity of the posters for distribution, please call Rue Gordon at (703) 790-4402.

PRC announces plans for admission

Pearl River College's continued effort to strengthen its academic program has resulted in new admissions procedures for the fall semester.

All students entering an academic or technical course of study this fall at Pearl River College must take the American College Test (ACT) prior to registration.

Students' ACT scores will then be used as a guide for placement of all academic and technical students in the mathematics, English and reading areas.

Resently the PRC Administrative Council established minimum scores for the different areas.

Students registering less than the minimum scores will be required to take either basic math, basic English, basic reading or a combination of the three.

"We want to enhance the student's ability to succeed in college," said President Marvin R. White.

"If a student is deficient in an area, then we want to help prepare him or her for regular college work."

Students scoring 6 or less on the math section of the ACT will be scheduled for basic math 1103. Students scoring 7-9 will be scheduled for pre-algebra 1233. Those scoring 10 or above on the ACT in math will take college algebra 1313 or above.

Reading placement is based on the ACT scores in the area of social studies (reading). Any student scoring 9 or below will take basic reading 1213 and cannot enroll in a social studies course. Scores of 10 and above are required for enrollment in social studies courses.

Individuals scoring 11 or below on the English section of the ACT will have to take English 1103. Students making 12 or above on the ACT English section will enter College Freshman English 1113.

In order to enter the data processing program at Pearl River College students must have the following ACT scores: 12 or above composite; 12 or above in math and reading comprehension (based on social studies area); or a grade of 'C' or above on the aptitude test administered by the college.

The ACT will be given July 31 and Aug. 10 in the Science Auditorium at Pearl River College. Cost is $15.

For more information call the office of student affairs at 795-4558.

DOUBLE COUPON SAVINGS ON MANUFACTURER'S COUPONS! ***

Good Wednesday thru Tuesday with $5.00 minimum non-coupon grocery purchase!
 Redeem manufacturers' "cents-off" coupons by buying the items and we will DOUBLE the value stated on the coupons, with a minimum $5 NON-COUPON PURCHASE. Our "DOUBLE SAVINGS" applies to manufacturers' coupons you clip from newspapers and magazines — not "free", tobacco, or other retailer's coupons. The only exceptions are listed below:
 We will redeem DOUBLE the value of manufacturers' coupons up to 50¢. Coupons over 50¢ will be redeemed for $1. Coupons over $1 will be redeemed at face value.
 Only one coffee coupon (including vacuum and instant) may be doubled per order.
 If the double coupon value exceeds the retail price of the item, you will receive the item free, with no cash refund.
 One coupon per item will be refunded for double the value. All others will be redeemed at face value. No more than ten coupons will be doubled, unless the total purchase of non-coupon items exceeds $25.00.
